“ When I was a child I went shopping with my Grandma Davis. It was a tradition and I loved it. My favorite part was Grandma Davis would let me start the car. One day I broke the key off in the ignition and was so afraid Grandma would tell my Grandpa what I did. I beg her not to tell and she agreed. When we arrived at home I saw grandpa outside working on his car. I ran up and told him Grandma broke the key off in the ignition. I remember her smiling at me and she never said a word. I miss your smile and love you very much.
